Providence permitting the editor of this paper will vote this ticket because he feels that it is in the interest of Virginia and Appomattox county to do so, because the platform and principles these gentlemen stand for appeals to him. The election of this ticket means a better Virginia politically, and God knows we are entitled to it.

W. J. Bryan

All the nations mourn the death of that distinguished citizen Mr. Bryan, who died in Dayton, Tenn., Monday. His remains will rest at Arlington on Virginia soil. Historians will give him ample space. A leader in politics, religion progress—a statesman worthy of a place in the Hall of Fame. He was the ideal of thousands, we have always admired him and now mourn his death. Some say he had finished his work on earth, but we rather think he would have enjoyed the final settlement of his last great effort in defense of his God before going hence. Peace to his memory.

Mapp's Platform

Simplification and economy in government.

A simpler and more equitable tax system.

Revision of the Fee System.

Abolition of unnecessary departments.

Progress in road building according to the will of the people.

Better public schools for Virginia's children.

The Educational System of Virginia taken out of politics.

Strong support of Industrial, Agricultural and Public Welfare Departments.

Everybody entitled at least to good health.

Election of School Trustees by the people.

Mapp at Pamplin

Tuesday was hot and dry, but Senator Mapp was announced to speak at Pamplin and the hall was full and the audience was attentive.

Mayor O. E. Peterson called the meeting to order and introduced the speaker.

Mr. Mapp's voice told that he had been waging a strenuous campaign—speaking three times yesterday and billed for three Tuesday. He said he would drive into Appomattox Tuesday and leave the verdict with the people. He spoke clearly on tax equalization and said some counties paid only 5 per cent while some paid as high as 70 per cent. That the big land owners were making the little farmers carry more than their proper share of the burden—that those who had been dodging taxes would have to pay—that taxes would not be increased except in places where just portions of the government expense has not been borne by land barons.

On roads he wanted the roads completed and said it would be 1945 when they would completed under the present plan. He said we already owed under the Robertson Act more than $7,000,000 of borrowed money; that the people had settled the bond issue and he accepted their verdict.

On schools, his remarks elicited much applause when he told of an old Superintendent up in Southwest Va., for whom the people were praying that he might die. He was incompetent but so great a politician that the people could not turn him out. So that the State is spending $24,000,000 annually of the people's money and he wanted to speed up the progress of schools and take Virginia out of her position of 9th from the bottom of States.

His speech was well received and many came forward to meet him and assure him of their support.

Misleading Propaganda Answered

Senator Harry F. Byrd, candidate for Governor, is advertising thru-out the State that Senator Mapp stands for a $50,000,000,000 bond issue for roads and a plan of taxation that will increase everybody's taxes.

This is a gross misstatement of facts and is propaganda designed to mislead the voters of the state, whose intelligence is reflected upon by Mr. Byrd in believing the people will swallow this late hour political buncomb intended to deceive and misguide. The facts are: The Bond question is not at all an issue in this campaign, and the plan of tax equalization favored by Senator Mapp would decrease the taxes of the masses and reasonably increase the taxes of vast estates and big land barons who are not bearing their just proportion of taxation.

No change in the present law can be made without the consent of the Legislature, but should the plan Mr. Mapp favors become a law, it would absolutely function through local officials and also give the right of appeal by the individual, county or city units to the courts, despite Mr. Byrd's propaganda to the contrary.

MAPP CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Why We Are For Mapp

Early in March, this year, Westmoreland Davis, President of the Southern Planter, wrote Hon. G. Walter Mapp:

I am writing to offer my support of your candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination in the coming Democratic primary.

Your fairness, fearlessness, frankness and honesty of purpose in the discharge of your official duties appealed to me then, and compel me now to the advocacy of your candidacy.

This is a critical period in the history of Virginia. Her governmental needs are many and the funds at her disposal are limited. An efficient government economically and honestly administered, without fear or favor, is the goal to be sought, and I feel that such will be had at your hands.

For what he has deemed to be right, Mr. Mapp has consistently fought. Never in any important matter coming before Senate of Virginia while he was a member, was Mr. Mapp's position in doubt. He was no camp follower, no trailer after a popular leader. He carried the banner that others followed.

Ever since he entered the Senate in 1912, he was the true friend of the Virginia farmer. There were few measures of consequence to the farmer that were not fought to a finish under his leadership. There was not a single instance of his opposition to any bill that sought to obtain fair consideration for agriculture.

He was the patron of the law creating the Legislative Reference Bureau which has been invaluable to the representatives of farmers. This law was the outcome of a demand voiced by the Virginia Farmers' Institute.

He was patron of the bill providing for the establishment of the State lime grinding plant, which Mr. Byrd so ardently condemns.

He was a strong advocate of the law to provide libraries for rural schools thereby putting them more nearly on a parity with the schools of the cities.

He was an ardent advocate of the law that seeks to prevent the unfair competition of oleomargarine.

He was a champion of the law seeking to eradicate tuberculosis in dairy cattle.

He eagerly supported the bill to appropriate money for the purchase and the maintenance of pure-bred herds at V. P. I.

He voted for the law requiring State institutions to purchase only pure-bred livestock.

He was of invaluable assistance in the farmers' fight to bond commission merchants.

He was a consistent advocate and supporter of bills to promote and encourage cooperative marketing for farm products.

He was patron of the bill to manufacture binder twine in the penitentiary, in the interest of the farmer. Mr. Byrd fought the bill.

He was patron of the Virginia anti-trust bill, which was emasculated at the instance of men wishing to combine during the period of high prices. Mr. Byrd failed to vote.

Senator Mapp was patron of the law which created the State Purchasing Commission doing away with the old policy of indiscriminate, retail purchases. The office saves the State annually many times its cost.

Mr. Mapp knew that women would certainly gain the right to vote and he wanted them to have every possible opportunity to qualify for suffrage. He voted for a coordinate college at the University of Virginia. He voted to admit women to the College of William and Mary. He voted to give women the advantage of admission to graduate work at the University. MR. BYRD VOTED AGAINST EVERY ONE OF THESE BILLS.

We are supporting Mr. Mapp on his record. We cannot understand how any Virginia farmer can oppose him.

Under his leadership the State can be assured of an economical, progressive administration. Under this friend of Agriculture, the farmers of the State can be certain of fair treatment, and due consideration. Under this clean-lived and fearless advocate of true morality the Christian people of Virginia will feel absolutely safe.

The Southern Planter loves Virginia. It seeks to have the State served by men whose ability for leadership has been proven beyond question. The affairs of the Commonwealth will be safe in the hands of G. Walter Mapp and to the farmers of Virginia we commend his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination.

The Southern Planter,
Richmond, Va.

Time For Action

(Editorial Suffolk News, July 16)

The News, as its readers will recall, has not taken seriously a number of the charges made by Major Smithey against the attorney general and his office. In fact, the sympathy of this newspaper has been with Col. Saunders because of his high personal standing and character, but we must confess that development of the past few days have not been as reassuring as might be and it begins to look like there is something radically wrong in the department which Smithey has so mercilessly hammered. While the charge against Assistant Attorney General Bazille that he defended a bootlegger while in the service of the state, has been disproven, the error was in Smithey's informant, Andrew J. Ellis, commonwealth's attorney of Hanover County.

But in informing Major Smithey of the mistake so it could be corrected, Mr. Ellis charges that while in his present office Bazille is carrying on a private law practice and that as late as March 1924, he defended a criminal case in the Hanover court, and that since January 1, 1921, during Bazille's incumbency he had appeared as counsel for the defense in seven criminal cases in the Hanover circuit.

It must be borne in mind that the job held by Mr. Bazille calls for continuous service and pays a salary of $4,000 a year. It is not a large salary by any means but this employee of the state accepted it on condition that he would give his whole time to it. Instead of resigning, it appears he holds on to the office as a kind of "side issue," making his money right along in his private practice.

Virginia is paying out to officeholders at Richmond over a million dollars a year. How much services are they actually giving in return? If the employes in all departments are "carrying on" as Mr. Bazille is alleged to be doing is it a wonder that the force must be augmented from time to time and that the cost of governmental operation is constantly ascending? Here is Mr. Smithey's charge against Bazille, the correctness of which of course The News does not vouch, but it is on information of the commonwealth's attorney of Hanover county, himself a worthy and credible witness:

"Mr. Bazille is a full time state officer, drawing a salary of $4,000 per year, yet he has an active private practice and appears in various courts of the commonwealth. If Mr. Bazille has the time to devote to this extensive practice is it not about time a reduction of the personnel of the attorney-general's office be had, with a consequent saving of a great deal of money to the people of the state?"

Col. Saunders must show either that this charge is groundless or take the responsibility for permitting such practices to go on in his office. The people of Virginia are holding him, not his assistants or employees, responsible for the conduct of the attorney-general's office.

What It Means To You!

In three years of cooperative marketing in Virginia, North and South Carolina the average price of tobacco, exclusive of war prices, has been twelve cents higher than the average for twenty-four years prior to the organization of the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association.

The opponents of cooperative marketing will say that the average price of other farm products has shown an increase in the past three years also. That is true.

They will not tell you, however, that the PURCHASING POWER of the tobacco increase has, during these three years, been greater than the purchasing power of any other farm dollar. Why will they not tell you this also?

When the opposition propagandist tells you cooperative marketing of tobacco won't do, ask him to suggest a substitute for it. If he's sincere, he ought to be able to offer a better plan. But if it isn't going to be cooperative marketing, orderly marketing.

Massie S. Nash

Massie S. Nash died at his home near Spring Mill, July 19th at 5:50 o'clock in his 42rd year. He had been a great sufferer for many years, but began to grow worse about four months ago. His last days were intense suffering. He said he was ready to go and told his wife he would leave her at 5 o'clock so his spirit took its flight soon after. He was of a noble christian character and his church and community will miss him.

The funeral services were conducted at his home by Rev. Thomas, Baptist and Rev McNair, Presbyterian. He requested that the funeral services be spoken on the subject "Prepare to meet thy God", which was delivered in an impressive manner. The songs "Shall We Gather at The River" and "God Will Take Care of You" were sung at the home. After the services the body was taken to the Franklin burying ground and laid to rest amid a large concourse of relatives and friends who gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to his memory. The songs "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Asleep in Jesus" were sung at the grave. The flowers were carried by his nieces Cassie, Ethel, Mattie Annie and Doris Nash, Erna and Etta Wooldrige.

Mr. Nash is survived by his wife Mrs. Pearl Franklin Nash, and seven children: India, Edwin, Milton, Ruby, Lillian, Chap and Verta, his father T. J. Nash, and four brothers Cecil, W. Miss Veta Martin has been visiting relatives at Rough Creek and Phenix.

Smithey Speaks

Major Marvin Smithey, candidate for attorney-general spoke to a good size crowd at the courthouse here Saturday. J. W. Cawthon, Jr., presided over the meeting and A. H. Clement introduced the speaker.

Major Smithey added indictment No. 13 against his opponent, to-wit: That he drew his warrant for $38 on the State funds for his expenses to attend the funeral of one of the late Judges. His remarks received a great deal of applause when he scored the Educational Board for changing school books and its methods of holding secret sessions in the appointment of school superintendents.

Major Smithey will get a good vote in Appomattox, because Col. Saunders, his opponent, treated numerous petitioners of this county unfairly in appointing Mr. Featherstone superintendent of schools without giving petitioners opposing him a hearing.

The Educational Board as Constituted now, will look of course, to the man who inducted them to make an unpopular appointment and not to the people for any future political preference.

Maj. Smithy promises to fight increased telephone rates and to give the people a hearing in school matters.

JOHN M. PURCELL
FOR RE ELECTION
Treasurer of Virginia

subject to Democratic Primary

Entering the state Treasury's office some twenty years ago as a minor clerk, I have served continuously under Treasurers Hall, Byrd, Hall and Hall. Honorable Charles A. Goodwin in May, 1918, I was appointed to fill the unexpired term. During the past four years the duties of the office of Treasurer have been performed by me. I am familiar with every detail of the office and have endeavored to conduct it in the interest of the people. If elected I shall continue to do so. I am not making promises to anyone. I am simply asking for the office on the record I have made. I shall appreciate the support of my friends and will endeavor to merit the confidence reposed in me.

Why should an efficient man who is willing to give his entire time to the duties of the office be compelled to resign his position to engage in politics?

Let Nature Be Your Guide

You will never know the true beauty of Nature if you keep always to the main travelled highways. Her real delights lie far from the beaten paths —in the fragrant woods; in quiet flower-decked valleys; by the side of joyous, sparkling streams.

Only dirt trails lead to these spots; trails hard to travel—save in a Ford. To the Ford they are all open. Because a Ford Car, light yet powerful, comes easily through the hardest going.

Let your Ford take you away from the crowds this summer—into peaceful solitudes, where you can take your fill of beauty undisturbed. Venture without fear—it will carry you where you will; safely, easily and comfortably.
